

You are invited!

Please join young artists from all over the world in creating pieces of art illustrating not only what you are doing at this time, but also what you are thinking about now.

We invite you to capture the challenges you are going through and how you are feeling. Include things you are learning to be grateful for. We ask you to bring us right into your home, including thought-provoking details and cultural clues in your artwork.

Once submitted, Creative Connections will select pieces for a special online international art exhibit, social media posts and montage videos seen by a worldwide audience.

We welcome work from teachers as well!

Please submit your art by Friday, 22 May 2020.

Each art piece should be scanned or photographed and uploaded, and it should be accompanied by a completed submission form.

Also, you may send a short video with your name, school and country in an email to worldlink@creativeconnections.org.

If you have any questions, please email us at worldlink@creativeconnections.org.

IMPORTANT NOTE: The pieces (and all submissions) we receive and select become the property of Creative Connections.

We may use these art pieces for a range of educational purposes and for public relations purposes. We may also use reproductions of the pieces to share with art educators and young artists around the world and in other ways to support our mission of providing cultural education programs to the world's children in the years ahead.
